

Masquerade is when an octopus camouflages itself as an object, such as seaweed. To master this camouflage, the octopus waves its arms in the water and changes its skin texture from smooth to spiky. The fish swimming by do not see an octopus, but only seaweed!

